FORD'S BLADE RUNNER GUN AND FRANKENSTEIN POSTER SELL FOR $200,000

Posted: Saturday 9 May 2009

The recession has yet to hit the Hollywood memorabilia market - HARRISON FORD's blaster gun from BLADE RUNNER and an original FRANKENSTEIN movie poster have just sold at auction for more than $200,000 (GBP133,300) each.

Ford's Rick Deckard sci-fi weapon, the only firing gun used in the cult film, went under the hammer for a whopping $270,000 (GBP180,000), while the 1931 poster stunned Profiles In History auction house bosses when it fetched $216,000 (GBP144,000).

Other highlights of the spring memorabilia sale, which brought in over $4 million (GBP2.6 million), included the Creature From The Black Lagoon's mask, Arnold Schwarzenegger's Mr. Freeze costume from Batman & Robin and Derek Meers' Jason Voorhees costume from Friday the 13th.

Also going under the hammer were two velociraptors feeding on a triceratops display from Jurassic Park, Ray Park's Darth Maul fighting lightsaber from Star Wars: Episode 1 - The Phantom Menace and the cape worn by Bela Lugosi in a string of Dracula movies.
